

Have a look at the link for the new result format.

It will take you to the page for the Weatherby Salver results, but only this week's session is properly formatted, so make sure you click on the results for the 10th of May.

When you see the results if you want more information you could click on your name, or even somebody else's name to see the personal score sheet for all the boards of just that pair.

If you click on a board number you will see all the information about the results on that board and you will also see the hand record.

Cheers

Patrick